Western Union Joins in Fight on Bucket Shops.

80 PER CENT OF ALL TRADES SETTLED

Question of Reopening Yet a Matter of Guessing-Money Easy with Brokers.

Two governors of the New York Stock Exchange met yesterday after-

"When will the exchange open."

asked one.

"Two weeks. What do you think?"

"Two menths, and you cannot maintain your prediction any more than I can mine."

The dialogue explains the situation as regards the opening of the exchange. Many of the members would like to open at once, but until the bankers give the word and the European situation, particularly on the high seas, clears up, that word will not be given.

The work of closing up trades that were open between brokers when the exchange closed has progressed well. Yesterday it was conservatively estimated that $0 per cent of the contracts had been closed. Other brokers were positive that the percentage was higher. Some of the largest houses in the Street have but two or three contracts to be adjusted, and many have so few that everybody, except a bookkeeper and prehans a member of the firm, has to be adjusted, and many have so level that everybody, except a bookkeeper and perhaps a member of the firm, has taken an indefinite leave of absence.

The governing committee will meet to-morrow, but the matter of reopening the state of t will not be touched upon except cas-ually, the real purpose of the meeting being to receive the new contract with the Western Union Telegraph Com-pany for the distribution of quotations nany for the distribution of quotations agreed to by the company and a sub-committee of the governors.

The exchange and the company have been doing business for more than a year on a contract breakable on twenty-four hours' notice. During much of that time the two interests have been seeking to get together, the chief bone of contention being the method to be pursued to protect the quotations of the exchange from use by bucket shops and unauthorized persons. Under the old contract the exchange nominally had a veto power on private wire and old contract the exchange nominally had a veto power on private wire and ticker service. As a matter of fact, the exchange had very little power, the company making it almost necessary for the exchange to convict a firm or person of bucket shopping before scrvice was curtailed or refused.

Under the new contract the exchange will have as much control of the wires as is consistent with the law governing the Western Union as a common carrier. This, it is expected, may result rier. This, it is expected, may result in some litigation on the part of bucket shoppers to force the company to give them service, but it is not feared that the courts will look with a favorable are upon the placetimes. upon the pleadings of such

To-day's meeting will be a formal affair, the actual closing of the contract going over to a later date. Meantime the exchange and the company are going ahead as though it were signed, sealed and delivered.

Brokers who visited the executive offices of the exchange yesterday were in many instances complaining that they were piling up too much money, the high rate for carrying stocks—8 per cent—forcing wealthy clients to take up their commitments. Under the circumstances these would like to put some of their surplus cash to work, but for the present at least they will let the banks look out for that line of business.
